January Meeting Occasion for Elections, Funding Decisions

The annual meeting of the International Berkeley Society was held on Saturday evening, January 20, 2007 at Whitehall, Berkeley's Rhode Island home near Newport. Margot Grosvenor, president of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America in Rhode Island, welcomed the Society to the house, and elections followed shortly thereafter. Elected for three-year terms were President Stephen Daniel (Texas A&M University), Vice-President Timo Airaksinen (University of Helsinki), Secretary-Treasurer Nancy Kendrick (Wheaton College, MA), Membership Secretary Genevieve Migely (Cornell College, IA), and Recording Secretary Amy Garrison (Naval War College, RI). Other Executive Committee officers—past President Lou Alfonso, Archivist (and former secretary-treasurer) Maureen Lapan, and Philosophy Associations Coordinator Margaret Atherton—were recognized for their service, as were Joanne Dunlap (former membership secretary), Dana Magee (former recording secretary), and Nancy Bredbeck (chair of the Colonial Dames' Whitehall Committee). The philosophy departments at Texas A&M University and Cornell College were also thanked for covering printing and mailing costs for the Society.

Kendrick

In 2006 the Society received $1036.79 in dues and Whitehall library donations, and expenses totaled $1027.55. IBS accounts amounted to $6557.34, of which $1809.63 are committed to the support of Whitehall and the IBS library there.

Migely

Currently, the Society has about 125 active members; another 25 are arrears in dues payments. Half of our members are involved in teaching and research (mostly in philosophy), and half are either retired academics or non-academics interested in Berkeley (especially his time in Rhode Island).

Two-thirds live in the U.S.; the rest live in England, Canada, France, Ireland, Italy, Denmark, Germany, Finland, México, Sweden, Switzerland, Scotland, Slovenia, Japan, Estonia, Australia, and Venezuela.

Those present at the meeting decided that future membership forms should include a request not only for dues and Whitehall library purchases but also for donations to support research on Berkeley's life and thought. In the past the Society has aided in publishing translations of Berkeley's writings and helped defray costs of international conferences. Three such projects were approved for funding for 2007: two international Berkeley conferences (one in Helsinki, Finland, another in Gaeta, Italy) were each given $400 to host IBS-sponsored receptions, and a $500 grant was provided to help with the publication of Reexamining Berkeley's Philosophy, edited by Stephen Daniel (University of Toronto Press, 2007). Funding was also approved to install wireless internet service in Whitehall for scholars in residence during July and August.

By far, the most engaging topic of the evening was the plan for a Berkeley conference in Newport (now fixed for June 26-28, 2008). The conference will showcase both Berkeley's thought and the New England setting in which he lived. Expecting great things for next year, members ended the meeting with a toast commemorating the Berkeleys' arrival in Rhode Island.

Berkeley Sessions at APA Eastern and Central Division Meetings

After a hiatus of several years, the IBS sponsored a well-attended session on Berkeley at the Eastern Division meeting of the American Philosophical Association in Washington, D.C. on December 28, 2006. Forty people showed up, and afterwards many went out to dinner to continue the discussion.

This year's session will be at the Marriott Inner Harbor Hotel in Baltimore, Maryland. Tentatively scheduled for Friday, Dec. 28, 2007, 5:15-7:15, it features Sukjae Lee (Ohio State U), who will speak on "Berkeley on the Activity of Spirits" (comment by Jeff McDonough, Harvard U); and Samuel Rickless (U California San Diego), who will speak on "Berkeley and Abstract Ideas" (comment by Martha Brandt Bolton, Rutgers U). For more information, contact the session chair, Margaret Atherton (U of Wisconsin, Milwaukee) at atherton@uwm.edu.

CALL FOR PAPERS: The IBS will also sponsor a session at the Central Division meeting of the APA at the Palmer House Hilton in Chicago. It is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, April 17, 2008, 5:15-7:15. If you would like to be considered for the program, please send your paper to Margaret Atherton (address above) no later than Thursday, November 1, 2007. Papers should deal with some aspect of Berkeley's philosophy and be no longer than 3,500 words. Also, please contact Margaret if you would like to be a commentator.

PayPal On-line Dues Payment a Success

After only one year, half of all IBS members now pay their $15 dues and make donations on-line using a credit card or a personal account on PayPal. For members in the U.S. and abroad, this is often much easier than surface mail. Due to excessive costs, the IBS no longer accepts checks from foreign banks. To use PayPal, simply follow the instructions at our website (<http://georgeberkeley.tamu.edu/form.html>).

McDonough Wins Turbayne Berkeley Essay Prize

The winning essay in this year's Colin and Ailsa Turbayne International Berkeley Prize is "Berkeley, Human Agency and Divine Concurrentism" by Jeffrey McDonough (Philosophy, Harvard University). Established by the Turbaynes in conjunction with the Philosophy Department of the University of Rochester, the $2000 prize is awarded every two years. The next deadline for submissions is November 1, 2008; the winner will be announced on March 1, 2009. Submitted essays should be unpublished treatments of some aspect of Berkeley's philosophy, written in English, and not exceed 5,000 words. All references to Berkeley should be to Luce & Jessop, using the MLA or a similar format for notes. Submissions are blind reviewed by a panel selected by the Department of Philosophy of the University of Rochester. Past winners are listed on the IBS website. Submissions should be sent on paper (not e-mail) to:

Chair, Department of Philosophy
University of Rochester
P.O. Box 270078
Lattimore 532
Rochester, NY 14627-0078

Donating Materials to Whitehall

Most of the books and articles in the IBS library at Whitehall were donated by supporters or authors themselves. Such donations allow us to use our limited resources to fill in gaps in the collection. If you have publications that could enhance the collection, please send them to the International Berkeley Society, Honyman Hall, Queen Anne's Square, Newport, RI 02840, USA.

A list of current holdings at Whitehall can be found at <http://georgeberkeley.tamu.edu/whlibrary.pdf>. For more details, contact Nancy Kendrick at 508-286-3677 or nkendric@wheatonma.edu.

Helsinki Conference on Berkeley, 6-9 August 2007

In anticipation of the 300th anniversaries of the publication of some of Berkeley's most known works, scholars from around the world will gather for a conference on his philosophy at the University of Helsinki August 6-9, 2007. The conference site is the main university building at Fabianinku 33. Events include a bus tour of Helsinki the night before the conference begins, an audience with the Rector of the University of Helsinki, and a banquet. The conference schedule includes:

August 6

- 09.45 Opening of the Conference. Chair: Bertil Belfrage
10.00 Session One: Berkeley on Perceiving. Chair: Stephen Daniel
Bertil Belfrage: "Ideas" in Section One of Berkeley's Principles

“The Dean of Thin Air” DVD Available for Donation

The IBS has received permission from Rhode Island Public Broadcast to make DVD copies of “The Dean of Thin Air” (1983) available to its members for personal and educational use. The hour-long PBS documentary about Berkeley cannot be obtained elsewhere and is a must-see for those interested in how the good bishop and his ideas are portrayed in film.

Members can get a copy of the DVD by donating at least $10 to support IBS efforts to enhance Berkeley scholarship. Use PayPal at the IBS website or send contributions to the Society office at Texas A&M University. Note: this contribution is different from donations to purchase books for the IBS library at Whitehall, so be sure to indicate which fund your donation is intended for. For tax purposes, the film is worth $5. Disks sent to members in North America and Japan will be formatted for DVD players using NTSC standards; those sent to members in other countries will be formatted using PAL standards.

Copies of the 23-page viewer’s guide to “The Dean of Thin Air” are available to any member of the IBS from Maureen Lapan for the cost of postage. Contact her at aisling.cois.fharrage@cox.net.

(An aside: the actor who portrays Berkeley, Daniel Von Bargaen, later appeared as Commandant Edwin Spangler on Malcolm in the Middle and George Castanza’s boss, Mr. Kruger, in Seinfeld.)

Berkeley Newsletter Becomes Berkeley Studies

When issue #18 of the Berkeley Newsletter appears on-line in November 2007, it will have a new name: Berkeley Studies. The name change indicates how the annual publication now includes full-length scholarly articles as well as short notes, reviews, abstracts, and bibliographic updates. As in the cases of Locke Studies and Hume Studies, all submissions to Berkeley Studies will be peer-reviewed.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Authors are encouraged to submit essays on any aspect of Berkeley’s life and work. The deadline for submissions for the coming issue is October 10—enough time for participants at the Helsinki and Gaeta conferences to revise and submit their papers for consideration. For more details, go to <http://people2.hsc.edu/berkeleynews/index.php>.

2008-2010 Conferences Slated for Newport, Karlsruhe, Neuchâtel

International Berkeley conferences are planned for the next three summers. The Newport conference (June 26-28, 2008) will be centered at Salve Regina University, but will include other venues such as Whitehall, the Redwood Library, and Trinity Church. Presentations will highlight not only Berkeley’s philosophy but also his economic, historical, artistic, architectural, and botanical interests. Proposals should be submitted by December 1, 2007 to Steve Daniel (sdaniel@philosophy.tamu.edu).

The conference in Karlsruhe, Germany (August 17-20, 2009) commemorates the 300th anniversary of the publication of Berkeley’s New Theory of Vision; the August 2010 conference in Neuchâtel, Switzerland commemorates the 300th anniversary of the publication of Berkeley’s Treatise concerning the Principles of Human Knowledge. Contact Bertil Belfrage (Bertil.Belfrage@telia.com) for more information on both conferences.

Gaeta Conference on Berkeley

26-28 September 2007

On September 26-28, 2007 the University of Cassino will host an international conference on Berkeley at the Hotel Mirasole in the seaside resort of Gaeta between Rome and Naples. The conference highlights Berkeley's innovative philosophical strategies for reconciling religious doctrines with the scientific and mathematical developments of the Enlightenment.

September 26

- 15.30 Opening of the Conference. Chair: Antonio Clericuzio (Cassino)
15.45 Session One: Berkeley on Philosophy and Religion. Chair: Bertil Belfrage (Lund)
Timo Airaksinen (Helsinki): God's Power and Berkeley's Active Mind
Roomet Jakapi (Tartu): Berkeley and the Separate State of the Soul
Daniele Bertini (Parma): Berkeley, la scienza teologica e l'esegesi biblica

September 27

- 09.15 Session Two: Berkeley on Philosophy and the Sciences. Chair: Geneviève Brykman (Paris X–Nanterre)
Luc Peterschmitt (Lille III): Berkeley and Chemistry in Siris: The Rebuilding of a Non-Existent Theory
Silvia Parigi (Cassino): "Scire per causas" vs. "scire per signa": Berkeley and Scientific Explanation
Richard Brook (Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania): Berkeley, the Space of Our Lives, and the Space of Physics
15.30 Session Three: Berkeley on Philosophy and the Sciences (cont.). Chair: Stephen Daniel (Texas A&M)
C. George Caffentzis (Southern Maine): Algebraic Money: New Reflections on Berkeley's Second Conceptual Revolution
Claire Schwartz (Neuchâtel): Berkeley et la référence mathématique
Antonino Drago (Pisa & Florence): The Genius of Infinitesimal Analysis: Berkeley's Critical Analysis and Its Generalization by Lazare Carnot

September 28

- 09.15 Session Four: Berkeley's Philosophy. Chair: Richard Brook (Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania)
Stephen Daniel (Texas A&M): How Berkeley's Works Are Interpreted
Marc Hight (Hampden-Sydney, Virginia): Berkeley's Metaphysical Instrumentalism
Bertil Belfrage (Lund): An Introduction to Berkeley's Philosophy of Common Sense
15.30 Session Five: Berkeley's Philosophy (cont.). Chair: Timo Airaksinen (Helsinki)
Geneviève Brykman (Paris X–Nanterre): Berkeley and Radical Enlightenment
Costica Bradatan (Texas Tech): Berkeley and the Cathars
Sébastien Charles (Sherbrooke): L'animal selon Berkeley

Wireless Internet New Resource for Whitehall Resident Scholars

Thanks to IBS funding, resident scholars at Whitehall (Berkeley's Rhode Island home) have access to the Internet this summer for the first time. In consultation with Colonial Dames' Whitehall Committee Chair Nancy Bredbeck, IBS Secretary-Treasurer Nancy Kendrick arranged to have the wireless connection installed for July and August, the two months when residents live at Whitehall and use the Berkeley Study Center there.

The first scholar to benefit from the connection is Dr. Cynthia Grund, professor of philosophy at the University of Southern Denmark. She and her husband Haagen Cumlet were in residence throughout July, and they could use their laptops anywhere in the house (even to watch Danish television via the Web). They are donating a copier-printer to the Study Center. Other scholars this summer are the Ven. Dr. Michael Ippgrave (Archdeacon of Southwark, London, England) and his wife Julia and son Ben, August 1-12; and Dr. Samuel Rickless (professor of philosophy, University of California, San Diego) and his wife Dana Nelkin and their daughters Sophie and Alice, August 14-31.

Every July and August, Whitehall is home to scholars who take advantage of the opportunity to live in the house Berkeley designed and in which he wrote Alciphron. Located three miles from Newport, Whitehall has a modest library of more than 300 books and articles, most of which are by and about Berkeley. (For the library's holdings, go to georgeberkeley.tamu.edu/whlibrary.pdf at the IBS website.) Scholars conduct tours for occasional visitors on Wednesdays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Members of the Colonial Dames conduct tours on Tuesdays. For more information, see the new Colonial Dames Whitehall website (whitehallmuseumhouse.org) or call Whitehall directly at 401-846-3116.

For information on being a resident scholar, contact Joanne Dunlap at randjdunlap@cox.net or 401-847-7951. Cynthia Grund and Gerald Vision (Temple University) already plan to be there in 2008, so if you are interested, please let Joanne know soon.

“Berkeley Briefs” Available in Color by E-mail

As mentioned last year, you can receive Berkeley Briefs directly as e-mail attachment in an Adobe Acrobat format. That way, you receive your copy sooner and can link directly to Internet and e-mail sites mentioned in the Briefs. And the photos are in color! (The Acrobat Reader is available for free at <http://www.adobe.com>.)

All IBS members will continue to receive the Briefs by regular surface mail unless they choose the e-mail option. We encourage international members in particular to consider this option because it is more dependable and less expensive than surface mail. If you get the Briefs by e-mail, you need to notify the membership secretary Genevieve Migely (GMigely@cornellcollege.edu) when you change your e-mail address.

Keep In Touch

If you have news you think might be of interest to other members of the Society, send it to the Texas A&M University address listed in the IBS logo on the first page of the Briefs. Or email Steve Daniel at sdaniel@philosophy.tamu.edu. Our website is <http://georgeberkeley.tamu.edu>.

New Books on Berkeley

As we approach the 300th anniversary of the publication of Berkeley's most influential books, we are seeing an upsurge in work on his life and thought. In 2005 Cambridge University Press published The Cambridge Companion to Berkeley, edited by Kenneth P. Winkler; Thoemmes Continuum published David Berman's Berkeley and Irish Philosophy; and Palgrave Macmillan published Tom Jones's Pope and Berkeley. In 2006 three more books appeared: Costica Bradatan's The Other Bishop Berkeley (Fordham University Press), Eriugena, Berkeley, and the Idealist Tradition, edited by Stephen Gersh and Dermot Moran (University of Notre Dame Press), and Robert Schwartz's Visual Versions (MIT Press).

2007 is also turning out to be a good year for books on Berkeley. As stated on the order sheet enclosed in this issue of the Briefs, IBS members can receive a 20% discount on the University of Toronto's newly published collection of essays, Reexamining Berkeley's Philosophy, edited by IBS President Stephen Daniel. That flyer identifies the contributors to the collection and the titles of their provocative essays.

A second collection edited by Daniel, New Interpretations of Berkeley's Thought, will be published in September by Humanity Books in its Journal of the History of Philosophy Book Series. The volume shows how Berkeley's accounts of physical objects, minds, and God are united in his scientific, ethical, and religious doctrines. Included are essays by Charles McCracken ("Berkeley's Realism"), Daniel Flage ("Berkeley's Epistemic Ontology: The Three Dialogues"), Martha Brandt Bolton ("Berkeley and Mental Representation: Why Not a Lockean Theory of Ideas?"), Margaret Atherton ("The Objects of Immediate Perception"), Robert Muehlmann ("Strong and Weak Heterogeneity in Berkeley's New Theory of Vision"), Jeffrey Barnouw ("The Two Motives Behind Berkeley's Expressly Unmotivated Signs: Sure Perception and Personal Providence"), Talia Mae Bettcher ("Berkeley on Self-Consciousness"), Stephen H. Daniel ("Berkeley's Stoic Notion of Spiritual Substance"), Geneviève Brykman ("On Human Liberty in Berkeley's Alciphron VII"), Douglas Jesseph ("Faith and Fluxions: Berkeley on Theology and Mathematics"), Timo Airaksinen ("The Path of Fire: The Meaning and Interpretation of Berkeley's Siris"), and Sébastien Charles ("Berkeley and the Lumières: Misconception and Reconstruction"). The 320-page hardcover book (retail $80.00) is available at ecampus.com for $59.20 with free shipping.

In A Metaphysics for the Mob: The Philosophy of George Berkeley (Oxford University Press), John Roberts argues that by understanding how Berkeley explains commonsense notions of unity and simplicity, we can better appreciate his treatment of nature as a divine language and his insistence that minds are essentially defined in terms of will. Robert Fogelin predicts that Roberts' study will become a central work in Berkeley scholarship. The 200-page hardcover book (retail $55.00) is available for $44.39 from amazon.com in the U.S. and £32.99 in the U.K. (free delivery).

In Berkeley's Philosophy of Spirit (Continuum Publishing), Talia Mae Bettcher discusses Berkeley's treatment of the self in the context of not only well-known contemporaries such as Descartes, Hobbes, Malebranche, and Locke but also lesser-known figures such as Peter Browne and Anthony Collins. She argues that Berkeley's account of the cognitive and affective subject marks a shift from the older concept of a metaphysical supporter of properties to the more modern philosophical concept of subjectivity. The 192-page book (retail $120.00) is available for $75.60 from amazon.com.

Reexamining Berkeley's Philosophy

Edited by Stephen H. Daniel

George Berkeley (1685-1753) is perhaps most famous for his claim that our knowledge of the world is nothing other than our experience of ideas. Reexamining Berkeley's Philosophy examines this aspect of Berkeley's thought, arguing that such a viewpoint assumes that physical objects and minds are better understood when discussed in the contexts of science, morality, and religion. This collection confronts the question: how can we know anything about the world if all we know are our ideas?

Comprised of previously unpublished essays by leading scholars in the field, Reexamining Berkeley's Philosophy demonstrates how things in the world are intrinsically related to the sequences of experience that constitute minds. This collection also discusses how the harmony of experience reveals strategies for recognizing the inherently active character of reality. Ultimately, this volume represents a major contribution to the study of Berkeley's philosophy by critiquing the tendency to generalize his thought as a version of theologically modified solipsism. In this way it is a unique and valuable addition to Berkeley scholarship.

Stephen H. Daniel, president of the International Berkeley Society, holds the Fasken Chair in Distinguished Teaching and is a professor of philosophy at Texas A&M University.
